

Call for Submissions Hedgehogs and Foxes Election Haiku Contest

Hedgehogs and Foxes (H&F) welcomes Haiku submissions from poets and from those who dabble, especially writers from among the legal academy. As you know a Haiku is a type of short form poetry that consists of three phrases. The first phrase contains 5 syllables; the second uses 7 syllables; and the final phrase has 5 syllables. However, we welcome submissions that stray from the traditional format. Learn more about Haiku.

For example:

Consider me

As one who loved poetry

And persimmons.

By Masaoaka Shiki

The theme for this contest: Election 2020

Entries may be serious, emotional, spooky, snarky, or funny. We're all on the 2020 rollercoaster, and anything could happen! What's on your mind, and how might you express it in seventeen syllables?

H&F will publish the top-five Haiku submissions, as voted on by our Editorial Board. All submissions will receive grand applause from the Editorial Board, including the little hand claps in Zoom, and the winning submission will surely receive tremendous adulation from legal scholars, at least until the next election cycle.

Please email your Haiku submissions to Editorial Board Member, Joshua Aaron Jones: jj125@iu.edu. Submissions should be emailed no later than midnight on October 15. We hope to publish by Sunday, November 1. The email subject line should read "H&F Haiku Submission – Your Name." Please upload your Haiku in Word format and without your identifying information, as we will judge the Haikus anonymously. For all questions, please email Joshua.

Hedgehogs and Foxes is led by Editor in Chief, Christine Corcos, Associate Professor of Law at Louisiana State University. HaF collects and integrates information and techniques that lend themselves to the interdisciplinary study of law and the humanities, including literature, film, television, art, music, drama, history, and related disciplines. We provide research tips, teaching materials, interactive materials, interviews, essays, research articles, news, book reviews, poetry, art, and other original publications of interest to scholars in the area. Submission of all relevant media are accepted on a rolling basis. For other submissions or queries, please email Christine Corcos at ccorcos@lsu.edu.
